

COPENHAGEN CLIMATE-CHANGE CONFERENCE: WHAT'S THE DEAL?

As the public boils and the ice melts, the politicians are dithering

Not long ago,
this climate summit
was supposed to be
our last best chance
to save the planet...

Now there seems to be little hope
left for a binding
agreement to halt
global warming.

Image from a september 2009 anti-global-warming demonstration in Berlin, used by permission. Copyright Rosa Merk/World Wildlife Fund Germany

Is there still cause for hope?

The Brandeis Forum on Environmental Crisis presents a panel, open discussion, and film "The Age of Stupid"

Beginning at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday, December 2, in International Lounge, Usdan Student Center.

Buffet dinner will be served. RSVP to CGES@brandeis.edu

Sponsored by the Brandeis University Center for German and European Studies, in cooperation with the Heinrich Boell Foundation Washington D.C.